

The desert locust (Schistocerca gregaria) has to eat vast quantities of carbon-rich plants in order to get enough nitrogen and phosphorus to maintain its C:N ratio.