

Malignant lung tissue (seen here) and cancerous colon tissue both had the highest phosphorus content in research exploring the rapid growth rates of tumors.

See also: Ecophysiology • The food chain • Energy flow through ecosystems • The foundations of plant ecology