

Whales were once thought to be fish, and were classified as such in an early edition of Linnaeus's Systema Naturae. Only later was it understood that they are actually mammals.