Effects of pollution on health

Polluted air and water cause the deaths of millions of people every year. This illustration describes the specific damage caused to different organs of the human body.

Read accessible description