

Read accessible description

"By felling trees … men bring upon future generations two calamities at once: want of fuel and scarcity of water."

Alexander von Humboldt

19th-century German explorer