

The first African woman to win a Nobel Peace Prize (2004), Wangari Maathai initiated a community-based tree planting program to reverse erosion and desertification in Kenya.