

Collaborative work is crucial for the advancement of scientific knowledge.

To work together over long distances, scientists need things to be named with accuracy.

Misunderstandings cause discrepancies in scientific knowledge.

If you do not know the names of things, the knowledge of them is lost.

BACK TO ARTICLE