Animals come into conflict with each other over food, territory, and mate selection.

They have evolved to react to the behaviour of other animals in certain pre-programmed ways.

The best strategy depends on what others are doing.

BACK TO ARTICLE