It remains below 0.3 per cent in 1760, then climbs gradually and peaks sharply at 2.3 per cent in the 1960s. After the peak, the growth rate declines steadily, with projections indicating it will continue decreasing and turn negative (−0.1 per cent) by 2100.

BACK TO ARTICLE