1563	The Toungoo defeat Ayutthaya, the capital of Siam, and force Ayutthaya to pay tribute.
1597	The Nyaunggan dynasty or Restored Toungoo dynasty is founded.
1613	Anaukhpetlun defeats the Portuguese.
1614	The Toungoo lay siege and eventually take Chieng Mai.
1687	Captain Weltden lays claim to Negrais Island.
1753	King Alaùngpayà drives Pegu forces out of northern Myanmar.
1755	King Alaùngpayà founds the Konbaung dynasty.
1757	In June, Ensign Robert Lester is sent to Pegu by the British government as “Ambassador Extraordinary.”
	In July, Great Britain and Burma sign the Treaty of Friendship and Alliance that grants the East India Company the island of Negrais and a tract of land at Bassein for factories.
1783	Burma recognizes Arakan; a direct frontier is established between Burma and British-administered Bengal (Chittagong). The Naat River is the boundary line.
1824–1826	The Treaty of Yandabo ends first Anglo-Burmese war. Burma cedes suzerainty over Arakan between Chittagong and Cape Negrais to British India. Burma recognizes Manipur, Cachar, and Jaintia as British territories, is compelled to pay Britain an indemnity, and accepts the appointment of the British resident at Ava. Burma agrees to negotiate a commercial treaty with Great Britain.
1852	Outbreak of the second Anglo-Burmese war. Great Britain annexes lower Burma, including Rangoon, Pegu, and Martaban.
1853–1878	An industrial revolution takes place during the reign of King Mindon.
1872	The fifth Buddhist synod is held in Mandalay.
1876	Burma's first ambassador to Europe, Kinwun Mingyee U Kaung, travels to Europe aboard the Yaynanyinthar.
1878	The British dispatch the ship Irrawaddy to Thayetmyo.
1885	Outbreak of the third Anglo-Burmese war. The British capture Mandalay.
1886	Burma becomes a province of British India.
	David Sime Cargill founds the Burma Oil Company (BOC).
1886–1895	The Burmese wage a guerilla war against the British in northern Burma.
1901	Standard Oil Co. begins operations in Burma.