1906	The Young Men's Buddhist Association is founded in Rangoon. This is considered the start of the nationalist movement.
1920	Establishment of the General Council of Burmese Association and the demand for constitutional advancement.
	Students at Rangoon University strike in protest against Burma's exclusion from the Government of India (GOI) Act.
1923	Burma becomes a governor's province under provisions of the GOI Act. Sir S. H. Walter becomes the first governor of Burma.
1930	Formation of the Do Bama Asi Ayon and the radicalization of the nationalist movement.
1930–1932	Hsaya San's peasant rebellion.
1937	Burma is ceded from India and becomes a crown colony. Ba Maw becomes Burma's first prime minister.
1938	Oil field workers' strike.
1939	U Pu becomes prime minister.
	The Communist Party of Burma (CPB) is formed.
1940	U Saw becomes prime minister.
1941	The Burmese Independence Army is formed in Bangkok, Thailand.
1942	The Burmese Independence Army enters Burma.
1942–1945	The Japanese Imperial Army occupies Burma.
1943	The Japanese grant nominal independence to Burma.
1945	The Burma Independence Army initiates an anti-Japanese uprising.
	Britain liberates Burma from the Japanese and reestablishes British administration of Burma.
1947	The Aung San-Attlee Agreement is signed.
	The Panglong Agreement is signed.
	Constituent Assembly elections are held.
	Aung San is assassinated by political opponents.
1948	Burma becomes independent and U Nu becomes the first prime minister of an independent Burma.
	Burma joins the United Nations and becomes its 59th member.
1958–1960	General Ne Win heads a “caretaker government” following a split in the ruling Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League (AFPFL) party.