Thai Prime Minister Yingluck Shinawatra meets with General Min Aung Hiaing at Government House in Bangkok, Thailand. The meeting aimed at strengthening the two countries' relations.

Australia eases its sanctions on Myanmar by removing some people from a list of Myanmar officials targeted with financial and travel restrictions.

Myanmar's government signs a ceasefire with the Karen National Union, ending one of the world's longest-running ethnic insurgencies.

The United States restores full diplomatic relations with Myanmar hours after the new civilian government released many of its political prisoners including Min Ko Naing and other leaders of the “88-generation students” group, which include Nilar Thein, Htay Kywe, Mya Aye, and the ethnic Shan leader Khun Tun Oo.

French Foreign Minister Alain Juppé visits Myanmar, where he awards Aung San Suu Kyi France's highest honor, the Legion of Honor.

Aung San Suu Kyi registers to run for a parliamentary seat in the Kawhmu constituency in the April 1 by-elections.

The European Union (EU) suspends visa bans on leading politicians from Myanmar.

The NLD wins 43 out of 45 seats in landmark parliamentary by-elections considered to be free and fair by observers. Aung San Suu Kyi wins the seat of Kawhmu, near Yangon.

The United States agrees to ease sanctions against Myanmar, including the relaxation of restrictions on Myanmar officials and on financial transactions and investment.

British Prime Minister David Cameron meets with President Thein Sein in Naypyidaw.

The EU agrees to suspend all sanctions except the military embargo against Myanmar.

South Korean President Lee Myung-bak visits Myanmar. This is the first visit by a South Korean leader since the 1983 North Korean bomb attack in Rangoon that killed 21.

The United States eases sanctions against Myanmar.

Aung San Suu Kyi speaks at the World Economic Forum of East Asia in Bangkok, Thailand. This is her first travel outside Myanmar in 24 years.

Indian Prime Minister Manmohan Singh visits Myanmar. The visit is the first by an Indian prime minister in 25 years.

Aung Sang Suu Kyi is invited to visit France at the invitation of new President Francois Hollande.

Thein Sein meets UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon in Naypyidaw.

Deadly clashes erupt between Rakhine Buddhists and Rohingya Muslims in Rakhine state. An estimated 30,000 people are displaced and the government