

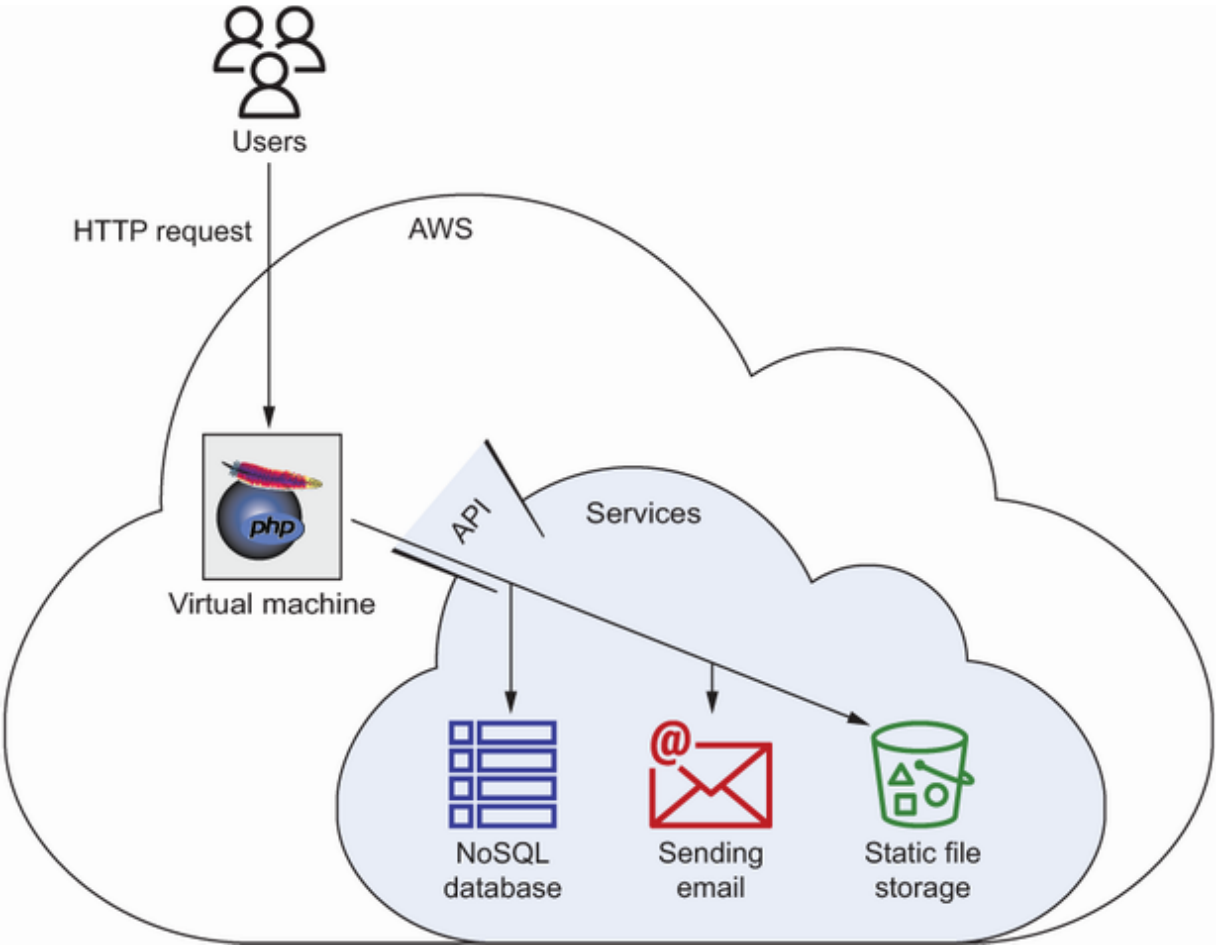

Figure 1.11 Handling an HTTP request with a custom web application using additional AWS services

The number of services available can be scary at the outset. When logging into AWS's web interface, you are presented with an overview listing around 200 services in 25 categories. On top of that, new services are announced constantly during the year and at the big conference in Las Vegas, AWS re:Invent, which takes place annually in November.

AWS offers services in the following categories:
