
1 THE BRITISH FLEET ARRIVES
The British attack the French fleet at anchor in two squadrons. Of Nelson's 14 ships, two (Swiftsure and Alexander) are still on their way from Alexandria, one (Culloden) has run aground, and a fourth (Leander) has been delayed.

2 FRENCH OVERWHELMED
The first five British ships pass inside the French van, while the rest attack from the seaward side; these are soon joined by the three delayed British ships. The ensuing mêlée sees the French van and center largely destroyed.
3 BRITISH VICTORY
After a pause, the British attack the French rear, which is now commanded by Rear Admiral Villeneuve. While the rest of his fleet is overpowered, Villeneuve escapes with two ships of the line (Guillaume Tell and Généreux) and two frigates.
