A violent clash
Cape Ecnomus was the largest and fiercest sea battle fought between Rome and Carthage. The Carthaginians were fighting to prevent the Romans from invading their North African homeland.

1 CARTHAGINIAN SUBTERFUGE
As the Roman fleet sets sail for Africa, the Carthaginians are there to block their path. But as the Romans sail along the coast to try and force their way through, the Carthaginian center turns and pretends to flee away from the battle.

2 THREE BATTLES DEVELOP
Hamilcar's plan succeeds and the two leading Roman squadrons are separated from the rest of the fleet. Hamilcar turns his ships to meet them and a fierce battle ensues. The Carthaginian left and right attack the other two Roman squadrons.