reached, nine with armed groups in Shan State. In the southern Shan State, the Shan State Army (SSA), PNO, and Shan State Nationalities People's Liberation Organization (SSNPLO) reached ceasefire agreements with the regime in 1989, 1991, and 1994 respectively. The ceasefire areas were demarcated: SSA was allotted Shan State Special Region 3, and the PNO was confined to Shan State Special Region 6. SSNPLO did not get a special region but had to share territories with the PNO in Hsihseng and Mawkmai townships; however, their areas of control extended all the way to the Thai border (Map 5.1).

Map 5.1. The locations of the main ceasefire groups in Shan State

Source: Adapted from CartoGIS, College of Asia and the Pacific, The Australian National University