

Roman military engineering
Roman soldiers cross the Danube on a newly constructed pontoon bridge during the Emperor Trajan's first campaign against the Dacians (101–102 CE). Danuvius, the stern god of the river, looks on in this scene from the frieze on Trajan's Column in Rome.