This makes good use of peppery late-season arugula which may have become a bit leathery. If your arugula is in bloom, the flowers have a distinctive savory flavor.

arugula and parmesan soup

SERVES 4 PREP 11 MINS COOK 30 MINS FREEZE UP TO 3 MONTHS

2 tbsp olive oil
2 medium onions, chopped
1lb 7oz (650g) potatoes, washed but not peeled, cut into ¾in (2cm) cubes
sea salt
4 small or 2 large garlic cloves, crushed
1 quart (1 liter) vegetable stock
1 Parmesan rind, about 1¼ x 3½in (3 x 9cm), cut into tiny dice
4½oz (125g) arugula leaves, coarsely chopped
fresh Parmesan, to serve arugula flowers, to serve (optional)

1 Heat the oil in a soup pan over medium heat. Add the onions and cook, stirring frequently, until soft and translucent. Add the potatoes with a little salt, stir, cover, and cook for 5 minutes, stirring frequently.

2 Add the garlic and stir for a few seconds until fragrant, then pour in the stock. Bring to a boil, add the Parmesan rind, then simmer for about 10 minutes, stirring occasionally, until the potato is soft.

3 Add the arugula, stir, and cook for 3–5 minutes, until tender but still bright green. Cool briefly, then purée the soup with a hand blender until smooth. Taste for seasoning. Serve each bowl with grated or shaved fresh Parmesan, and a few arugula flowers if you have them.

ARUGULA
A versatile ingredient with a pronounced peppery flavor. Go for locally grown arugula, choosing fresh leaves and firm stems. You can store unwashed arugula in the fridge for several days. Pre-washed leaves will only last a day.
