A great way to use up potatoes, and celebrate Spring.
If you can't find wild garlic leaves, use spinach instead and add a couple of garlic cloves with the potato and onion.

wild garlic soup

SERVES 4–6 PREP 10 MINS COOK 35 MINS FREEZE UP TO 3 MONTHS

6 large handfuls of wild garlic leaves
2 tbsp butter
3 medium potatoes, diced
1 large onion, diced
2½ cups hot vegetable stock
sea salt and freshly ground black pepper

1 Bring 3 cups of water to a boil and immerse the garlic leaves for 30 seconds. Remove with a slotted spoon (reserving the cooking liquid) and plunge into a bowl of cold water. Let cool, then drain and set aside.

2 Meanwhile, melt the butter in a saucepan over medium heat. Add the potatoes and onion and cook gently for 15 minutes. Add the stock and 2½ cups of the reserved cooking liquid, bring to a boil, then lower the heat and simmer for 15 minutes or until the potatoes are soft.

3 Remove the pan from the heat and add the garlic leaves. Process the mixture in a blender until smooth, then return to the pan and reheat gently. Season with salt and freshly ground black pepper and serve.
