production unit, also known as a 'firm', are covered under Microeconomics. At the same time the study of the demands of the nation, the production or supply level of a nation, the general level of employment etc. are covered under Macroeconomics.

A careful reading of the following table will give clarity on the question as to what is Microeconomics and what is Macroeconomics.

Issue considered	Is it Micro?	Is it Macro?
Quantity of orange demanded by Asstha Mathur	Yes	No
Quantity of orange demanded by North- east India	Yes	No
Quantity of orange demanded by India	Yes	No
Quantity of all products demanded by India	No	Yes
Price of orange in Nagpur	Yes	No
Price level of all products in India	No	Yes
Level of employment in Iron and steel industry	Yes	No
Level of employment in India	No	Yes

This book looks at Indian economy from the macroeconomic perspective, but does not dwell into theoretical aspects. It concentrates on the concepts and its practical implications.
