

By comparing community studies made in deserts around the world, macroecologists can determine the greatest threats to a desert species such as this banner-tailed kangaroo rat.

See also: Field experiments • Animal ecology • Island biogeography • Big ecology • Endangered habitats