

A Northern Gannet is entangled in the plastic rings of a six-pack. Birds that scavenge along the shore such as seagulls are especially prone to being caught in such debris.

See also: The food chain • Humankind’s dominance over nature • Human devastation of Earth • Man and the Biosphere Programme