table. China has advocated a new type of great power relations, a Belt and Road Initiative as well as a ‘community of shared future of humankind’. India’s world view is consultative, democratic and equitable, but must find clearer expression. When it comes to the Indo-Pacific, we will absorb changes in terminology, just as we come to terms with power shifts and their implications.