States and its allies coupled with the mainstreaming of India’s nuclear programme, the fast growth in India’s economy, and important developments in the Indian subcontinent. But this trajectory was not inevitable and a series of developments in and around 2008 presented bumps in the road.